For Whom?

- Those who want to understand complexity of “development”.
- Those who want to explore social, economic and environmental linkages of “development”.
- Those who want to acquire sound theories and practices of community development, economic development, or natural resource management, particularly in the Cambodian context.
- Those who want to become competent and critical in one of these fields as a researcher, practitioner or policy maker.
- Those who want to challenge themselves in the practice of “development”.

What Do We Offer?

- MA in Community Development
- MA in Economic Development
- MA in Natural Resource Management and Development

For More Detail:

Check our website for the course structure and description: http://www.rupp.edu.kh/master/development_studies/

MA PROGRAMS

Contact:

Room 216A, Building A, Campus I
Tel.: 855-92-791-070, 12-233-994
Email: fds.info@rupp.edu.kh
What Knowledge and Skills Will You Have?

Common Courses:
- Theories of Development
- Qualitative Research
- Quantitative Research
- Environmental and Natural Resource Economics

Elective Courses:
- Development Planning
- Social Changes and Development
- Policy Analysis
- Institutional Economics

And more…

MA in Community Development:
- Theories and Practices of Community Development
- Rural and Urban Sociology
- Community Economic Development

MA in Economic Development:
- Econometrics
- Cost Benefit Analysis
- Advanced Economic Development

MA in NRM and Development:
- Principles of NRM and Development
- Integrated NRMD and Planning
- NRMD: Issues and Prospects in Cambodia

And more…

Q&A

For How Long?
- 2 years, including coursework and a thesis

Instructional Methods?
- Participatory, learner-centered instruction
- Emphasis on research and policy
- Practical exposure

Class Times?
- Weekdays: 18.00-20.00
- Weekends: 8.30-17.00

Academic Calendar?
- Application deadline: End of August
- Entrance exam: Mid-September
- Start of Semester I: Early October
- 2nd intake in February

Lecturers?
- Holders of graduate degrees from Asia, Europe and America
- Academicians with research and work experience in development